70.3 Brazil finish-line sprint

The video of the finish at Ironman 70.3 Brazil quickly circulated around triathlon social media back in August. Here's the recap: As France's Jérémy Jurkiewicz made his way down the chute, he looked confident in a winning finish as he stopped to celebrate with spectators. But as he realizes that Brazil's own Igor Amorelli was sprinting in pursuit of the victory, he panics and jolts to the tape, throwing his body in front of Amorelli. The Brazilian showed a bit of sportsmanship and retreated to let Jurkiewicz take the win in 3:52:40 (Amorelli finished in 3:52:42).
